Dear Parents,

WOW! What an EPIC way to start our First grade year by watching the incredible solar eclipse. We also did some amazing observations with our own shadows and noticing some important differences during different times of the day. They all saw and learned many things about themselves and each other.

I am so excited to be working with such an awesome group of children. The first part of the year we will be working on building a strong, kind and caring first grade family. Also, the children will be learning the new routines and jumping into some exciting learning in many areas. We have begun some amazing work creating their "Social Contract" which is their promise on how they want to treat and care for each other.

I am encouraging parents to send in water bottles for the kids to have close at hand, especially during these warmer fall days. Also, at the beginning of the day the children need to set their backpacks along the wall and then go out to play on the playground. We are asking them not to come through the school. At end of the day you may pick up your child at the out side door, or at the flagpole whichever is more convenient for you.

Thanks so much for all your support and love that you give your child every day. It really makes a difference in their lives!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Horn
